

SCOTT MAUTZ BRIEF BIO

Scott Mautz is CEO of Profound Performance and a Procter & Gamble veteran who ran several of the company's largest multi-billion dollar businesses, including their single largest, a $3 Billion Dollar division. Along the way, he successfully transformed organizational health scores with each business he took over. He's an award-winning keynote speaker and the author of Make It Matter: How Managers Can Motivate by Creating Meaning – a book that's received many accolades including “The 2106 Leadership Book of the Year - First Runner Up” by Leadership & Management Books and a “Best 30 Book of 2015” by Soundview Business Books. Scott also teaches at Indiana University, has been named a “CEO Thought leader” by the CEO Executive Guild, and has been named a "Top 50 Leadership Innovator" by Inc. Magazine, where he also writes a weekly column for the national publication. He writes about others-oriented leadership, success, meaning in and at work, culture, motivation/inspiration how to's, personal development/productivity, and entrepreneurship. He's appeared in many national publications and podcasts.

He graduated from Binghamton University in '91 and received his MBA from Indiana University in '94. He lives in Cincinnati, OH with his wife and daughter.